Our scholars have a wide range of interests. We had two scholars accepted to medical school, and one scholar who graduated from fashion design school and opened her own business!

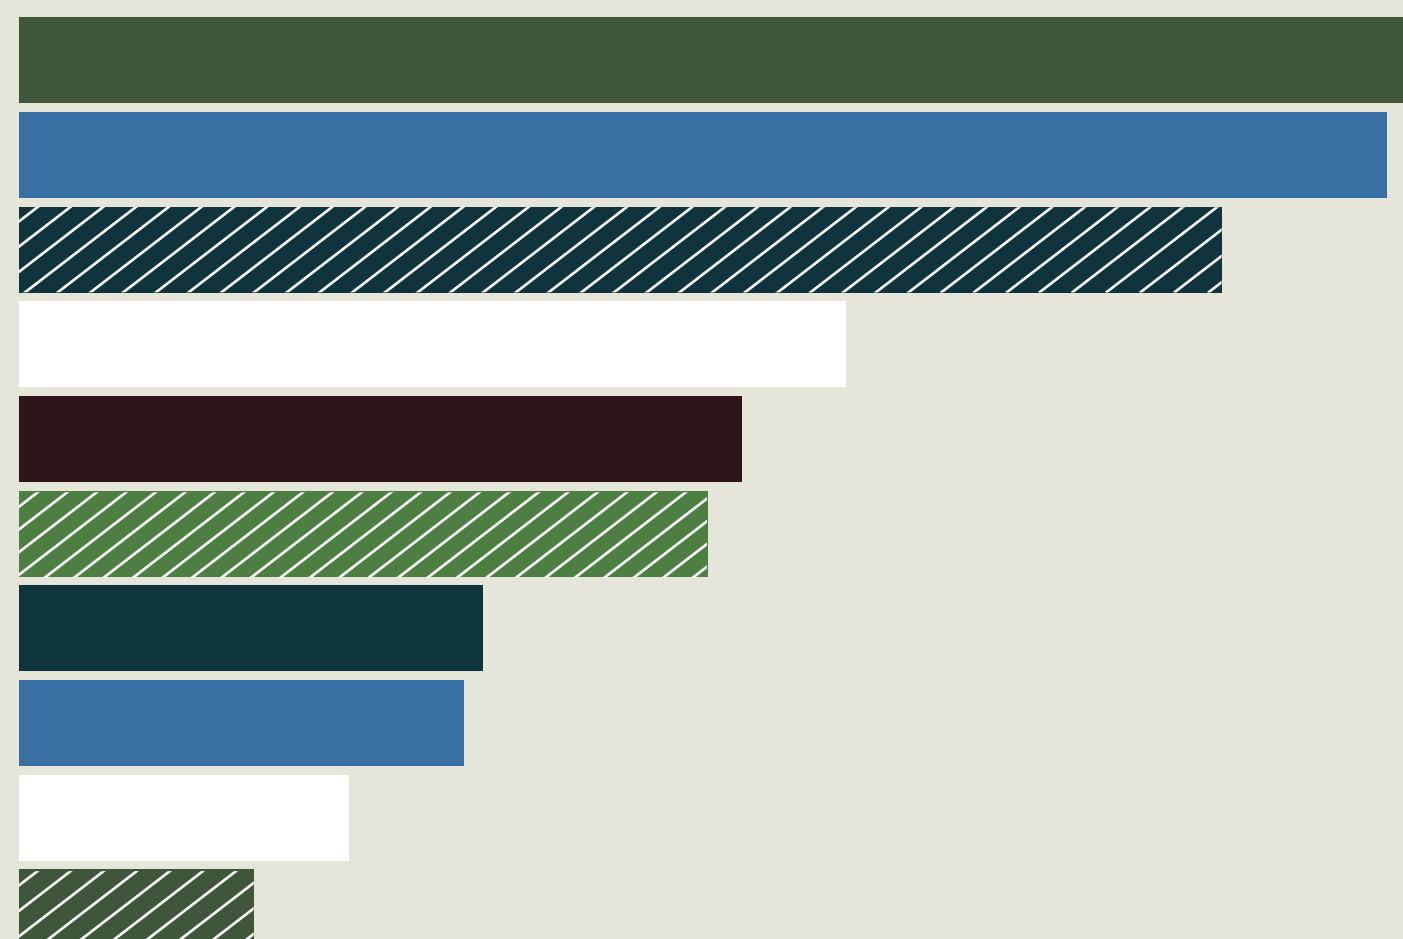

This year, we installed a new immunization refrigerator, donated through the Clinton Foundation and presented by the Ugandan Ministry of Health. The refrigerator has its own solar panel to ensure that all vaccines are safe in the event of a power outage.

Administrative*

* Administrative fees included production of the origin video project in 2020.

Our expenses totaled $110,461. We are pleased to report that an overwhelming majority (85%) of expenses went directly to our health and education programs.

Every year we constantly strive to minimize our administration and fundraising costs.

WE'RE JUST GETTING STARTED!

In October, we shared our Origin Video: the first chapter of where our journey together all began. Click the video below to watch!

Engeye is only able to thrive and help its community to thrive because of the generous donations, hard work, and many many volunteer hours contributed by its circle of supporters in the US and Uganda.

Thanks for all your support – here's to many more years!
